"In Arab culture, the merger between music and emotional transformation is epitomized by the concept of Tarab. "
-Dr. A. J. Racy's

Al Zataari camp is evolving into a permanent settlement, a city. The city requires a cultural center that helps its residents cultivate their ethos and strengthen their identity as a newly established minority in the outskirts of Jordan. The atrocities of the Civil War need to be left in the past because a brighter future is about to come. A future that embraces and resumes the cultural foundation of the past. A theater [musical hall] is the function that accomodates that. "A safe place for people to enjoy musical and cultural activity, so the Za'atari refugee camp becomes a more livable and enjoyable place."
